

Swedish Aides To Be Indicted

Stockholm, Saturday, Jan. 4 (AP)—

Several Swedish officers, including generals, will be indicted on grounds of dereliction of duty in connection with the Wennerstroem spy case, it was reported today.

The well informed newspaper Stockholm Söndningen said the officers unwittingly had helped Air Force Col. Stig Wennerstroem in his work for the Russians by giving him access to classified information that normally would have been inaccessible to him.

Police have reported that Wennerstroem, arrested last summer and formally charged with espionage for the Soviet Union, had access for ten years to secret documents that did not concern his own work in Sweden's armed forces.
